Englische King James Version von 1611/1769 mit Strongs

1 Woe^{H1945} to the bloody^{H1818} city^{H5892}! it is all full^{H4392} of lies^{H3585} and robbery^{H6563}; the prey^{H2964} departeth^{H4185} not;¹ 2 The noise^{H6963} of a whip^{H7752}, and the noise^{H6963} of the rattling^{H7494} of the wheels^{H212}, and of the pransing^{H1725} horses^{H5483}, and of the jumping^{H7540} chariots^{H4818}. 3 The horseman^{H6571} lifteth up^{H5927} both the bright^{H3851} sword^{H2719} and the glittering^{H1300} spear^{H2595}: and there is a multitude^{H7230} of slain^{H2491}, and a great^{H3514} number of carcasses^{H6297}; and there is none end^{H7097} of their corpses^{H1472}; they stumble^{H3782 H3782} upon their corpses^{H1472.2}: 4 Because of the multitude^{H7230} of the whoredoms^{H2183} of the wellfavoured^{H2896 H2580} harlot^{H2181}, the mistress^{H1172} of witchcrafts^{H3785}, that selleth^{H4376} nations^{H1471} through her whoredoms^{H2183}, and families^{H4940} through her witchcrafts^{H3785}. 5 Behold, I am against thee, saith^{H5002} the LORD^{H3068} of hosts^{H6635}; and I will discover^{H1540} thy skirts^{H7757} upon thy face^{H6440}, and I will shew^{H7200} the nations^{H1471} thy nakedness^{H4626}, and the kingdoms^{H4467} thy shame^{H7036}. 6 And I will cast^{H7993} abominable filth^{H8251} upon thee, and make thee vile^{H5034}, and will set^{H7760} thee as a gazingstock^{H7210}. 7 And it shall come to pass, that all they that look^{H7200} upon thee shall flee^{H5074} from thee, and say^{H559}, Nineveh^{H5210} is laid waste^{H7703}: who will bemoan^{H5110} her? whence^{H370} shall I seek^{H1245} comforters^{H5162} for thee?

8 Art thou better^{H3190} than populous^{H527 H528} No^{H4996}, that was situate^{H3427} among the rivers^{H2975}, that had the waters^{H4325} round about^{H5439} it, whose rampart^{H2426} was the sea^{H3220}, and her wall^{H2346} was from the sea^{H3220.3} 9 Ethiopia^{H3568} and Egypt^{H4714} were her strength^{H6109}, and it was infinite^{H369 H7097}; Put^{H6316} and Lubim^{H3864} were thy helpers^{H5833.4}. 10 Yet was she carried away^{H1473}, she went^{H1980} into captivity^{H7628}: her young children^{H5768} also were dashed in pieces^{H7376} at the top^{H7218} of all the streets^{H2351}: and they cast^{H3032} lots^{H1486} for her honourable men^{H3513}, and all her great men^{H1419} were bound^{H7576} in chains^{H2131}. 11 Thou also shalt be drunken^{H7937}: thou shalt be hid^{H5956}, thou also shalt seek^{H1245} strength^{H4581} because of the enemy^{H341}. 12 All thy strong holds^{H4013} shall be like fig trees^{H8384} with the firstripe figs^{H1061}: if they be shaken^{H5128}, they shall even fall^{H5307} into the mouth^{H6310} of the eater^{H398}. 13 Behold, thy people^{H5971} in the midst^{H7130} of thee are women^{H802}: the gates^{H8179} of thy land^{H776} shall be set wide^{H6605} open^{H6605} unto thine enemies^{H341}: the fire^{H784} shall devour^{H398} thy bars^{H1280}. 14 Draw^{H7579} thee waters^{H4325} for the siege^{H4692}, fortify^{H2388} thy strong holds^{H4013}: go^{H935} into clay^{H2916}, and tread^{H7429} the mortar^{H2563}, make strong^{H2388} the brickkiln^{H4404}. 15 There shall the fire^{H784} devour^{H398} thee; the sword^{H2719} shall cut thee off^{H3772}, it shall eat thee up^{H398} like the cankerworm^{H3218}: make thyself many^{H3513} as the cankerworm^{H3218}, make thyself many^{H3513} as the locusts^{H697}. 16 Thou hast multiplied^{H7235} thy merchants^{H7402} above the stars^{H3556} of heaven^{H8064}: the cankerworm^{H3218} spoileth^{H6584}, and flieth away^{H5774.5} 17 Thy crowned^{H4502} are as the locusts^{H697}, and thy captains^{H2951} as the great grasshoppers^{H1462}, which camp^{H2583} in the hedges^{H1448} in the cold^{H7135} day^{H3117}, but when the sun^{H8121} ariseth^{H2224} they flee away^{H5074}, and their place^{H4725} is not known^{H3045} where^{H335} they are. 18 Thy shepherds^{H7462} slumber^{H5123}, O king^{H4428} of Assyria^{H804}: thy nobles^{H117} shall dwell^{H7931} in the dust: thy people^{H5971} is scattered^{H6335} upon the mountains^{H2022}, and no man gathereth^{H6908} them.⁶ 19 There is no healing^{H3545} of thy bruise^{H7667}; thy wound^{H4347} is grievous^{H2470}: all that hear^{H8085} the bruit^{H8088} of thee shall clap^{H8628} the hands^{H3709} over thee: for upon whom hath not thy wickedness^{H7451} passed^{H5674} continually^{H8548.7}?
